This standard consultancy package covers what most applicants require to obtain their necessary approvals. Your approval(s) will be based on several factors including but not limited to: 1) You must obtain or already hold a Part 107 Pilot License (we offer an Online Study Guide). 2) Your ability to reply and provide information in a timely fashion. 3) Your preparation and success during your in-person, in-field safety interview with the FAA. Although it is less common, we want you to know that if the FAA requires additional information or consultant's work beyond the usual process, additional charges may apply (see rep for details). Given the nature of this process, we cannot guarantee your approval(s), but we do guarantee our work is complete, accurate and in accordance with the outlined FAA process.
